SENSIBLE TALK BY A CITY MAN

It is a rare happening, for as a rule expenses and at least an equal profit: the New York city man and woman know as little about farm problems as know as little about farm problems as they do about Sanscrit theology or as they would about the management of a hydro-aeroplane over the Zuyder Zee, attacked by two Gothas, three Taubes, seven Zeppelins, and a double-headed Hohenzollern black eagle, all the management of the says:

But the other day the New York Times published a letter signed by one B. F. Yoakum which, while by no means telling all the truth, did actually tell so much and that so clearly that I, as a working farmer and confirmed "hayseed," can't resist the temptation to pass some of it along to you, dearly beloved readers.

Not because there is anything star-flingly new in it to any practical farmer, but rather with the idea of confirming our own knowledge by this fresh evidence that, now and then. even a city man sees through the dust of his own chimneys far enough into the open to appreciate some of the other fellow's difficulties.

Mr. Yoakum bases his letter on two Mr. Yoakum bases his letter on two Texas in the server as consumer. The didn't starve to death then: why should they now?

Farming is a business, the same as mining coal, smelting ore, making cloth or selling shoes. If the men who are engaged in those undeniably useful functions are admittedly entitled to a price for their goods which not only returns producing costs but insures ZAN, 2187 Kimball Ave., Chicago, Ill. It is positively true that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and hervous prostration.

Written Specially for The Bulletin.
Once in a while even a "metropolftan," I. e., New York city newspaper manages to get hold of and publish something sensible about farming.
It is a rare happening for as a rule

Mr. Yoakum bases his letter on two texts: First, that "bread and not bullets will win the war;" second, that farm activities will be increased and that this average consumer usually works form production enlarged "only as and the construction of the average consumer usually works form production enlarged "only as and the construction of the con iess and enjoys a better and steadier income than seventy-five per cent. of other business on the same capital the state farmers, "who work the year round, run the risk of all kinds of the calls attention to the fact that more than half the sixty-two counties every disaster known to agriculture, in

> It is true that the farmers used to sell their milk for half what they get now. Yes, true; absolutely and arithmetically true. And just because that price was so low that it failed to give any profit, failed in thousands of cases to return even expenses, hundreds and thousands of milch cows in New York state have been turned into beef, hun-creds and thousands of heifer calves have been sold for yeal, and the pro-duction of milk so curtailed that there actually isn't enough new produced in the whole state to supply the state's real needs. Driven to desperation, the remaining and surviving veterans of the dairy industry have at last com-bined to force increases in the price of their milk. Yet, even with a doubling of that price, the best figures obtainable by their representatives show that they are making only two-tenths of a cent a quart over the computable cost of producing that quart. This isn't fifteen per cent. profit: it isn't even four per cent. profit. It isn't as much as their money would earn if they should sell off all their cows and invest the proceeds in four per cent. bonds or put them in a savings bank. Why? Why don't the dairymen make more money, now they're getting so much more for their milk? For the eimple reason that the rise in all other lines has so increased the cost of Potatoes and onions and beans and cora meal and wheat flour and the rest cost more to produce than they ever did before because every single element which enters into he cost of their production has gone the cost of their production has gone up in price. From seed and fertilizer to sieves and buriap bags, everything costs more. Those added costs must be paid, or farmers will have to stop producing. There's no other horn to the dilemma. If we can't pay our way, we shall stop going that way.

we shall stop going that way.

Mr. Yoakum calls attention to another factor in the problem which all of us will appreciate when it is stated, out which I don't happen to have deteriorating quality of farm tools farm machinery. While the buy-cost of all these things has risen as sharply as any other line, the inferior materials used and the incompotent workmanship applied result in such a loss of life and efficiency in folls and machines as to add another neavy expense to farming. Plows, sarrows, etc., don't last half as long s they used to; horses need shoeing vice as often as when shoes and its were made of good instead of oor material; gasoline for farm en-nes and farm delivery trucks cost wenty-five to twenty-eight cents a llon against twelve cents, the antevar price, and so on and on. Let me

OUR ANNUAL SALE OF TOILET ARTICLES

It Will Begin Today and Continue Up To and Including Saturday October 20th

OWING to existing conditions this is the most important offering of Toilet Goods that we have ever made. Due to rapidly rising costs of the materials that enter into the making of these goods there have been several sharp advances in the prices of Toilet Articles within a short time.

ND so far as we can see there is no prospect of lower prices during the continuance of the war-on the contrary nearly all Toilet Articles will carry a special war tax from now on, which must be added to the price of the article.
